

A horizontal line is drawn across the middle of the plot. It consists of a thin black line segment on the left, a thick black line segment in the center, and another thin black line segment on the right. A solid black circle is centered on the thick segment.

$$t_v(\mu, \sigma)$$